Experity Appoints Dr. Benjamin Barlow as Chief Medical Officer

Former White House Physician Joins Experity to Lead Company's Clinical Initiatives

Experity, the national leader in on-demand healthcare solutions, has appointed Dr. Benjamin Barlow as Chief Medical Officer. In this role, Dr. Barlow's clinical expertise will help accelerate Experity's growth and impact within the on-demand healthcare industry.

"Dr. Barlow brings nearly two decades' worth of invaluable experience in the medical field, and we are privileged to have him share his expertise with Experity as our Chief Medical Officer," said Dr. David Stern, CEO, Experity. "With knowledge of both the clinical and operational aspects of on-demand care delivery, Dr. Barlow's insights will be critical in driving the company's next stages of growth."

Dr. Barlow joins Experity after serving as the CMO at American Family Care, the nation's largest urgent care provider. At the start of his career, Dr. Barlow served as a physician in the United States Air Force for a decade in various capacities, most notably as Emergency Room Medical Director at Langley Air Force Base. Previously, Dr. Barlow served as a member of the White House Medical Unit, where he provided healthcare services to the First Families under the administrations of Presidents Barack Obama, and Donald J. Trump. His role then evolved into Senior White House Physician, where he spent two years traveling around the world to more than 50 foreign cities to evaluate hospitals in preparation for presidential visits.

"As the largest EMR vendor in urgent care, Experity is uniquely positioned to transform the industry of on-demand care," said Dr. Barlow. "I am thrilled to join Experity and to be part of a team that continuously addresses the most pressing systemic challenges that have long faced on-demand care. Through their patient-centric healthcare solutions, Experity continues to innovate on-demand care delivery, and I look forward to lending my expertise to progress those efforts."

Dr. Barlow attended Uniformed Services University School of Medicine, where he earned his Doctor of Medicine. He then went on to complete his Emergency Medicine Residency at Wright State University Boonshoft School of Medicine, leading to his Board Certification in Emergency Medicine. His service to the country and his contributions to the medical field at large have earned him several accolades, including the Veteran of Influence Award, and the Rising Star in Urgent Care Award.
